WAR NOW SURE

WAR BULLETINS:

PARIS—Le Matin, a semi-official newspaper, in an extra edition to-day says:

"THE GENERAL IMPRESSION IS THAT GERMANY HAS GONE TOO FAR AND THAT WAR CAN BE THE ONLY SEQUEL."

LONDON, Aug. 1.—The French embassy here received information this afternoon that the German ambassador at Paris, Baron Von Schoen, had announced, though perhaps unofficially, that he would leave Paris tonight.

PARIS, Aug. 1.—An unconfirmed report says that a general mobilization of the French army has been ordered.

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 1.—Germany is mobilizing her entire army according to reports received here today. All German ships in Dutch harbors have been ordered to remain there. At Rotterdam several discharged their cargoes and prepared to remain.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Japan and the United States may join in a "moral partnership" to save the peace of the world from the catastrophe which now threatens it, according to reports in official circles today. These reports were started by the return of the Japanese ambassador, Viscount Chinda, to Washington, and by the fact that he is now believed to be in communication with the State Department over the situation.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—King George today sent an urgent message to Czar Nicholas. It is believed to be an appeal for peace.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—A daily telegraph special dispatch dated Rome, Friday night, says a rumor circulates in diplomatic circles that news has reached Rome to the effect that Germany last night sent an ultimatum to both Russia and France.

BERLIN, Aug. 1.—At Kiel the commander of the Baltic station has issued the following order:

Till further notice the practical blocking of Kiel Harbor will take place day and night. The closed area lies within the navigation channel and may be passed only with the help of special pilots.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 1.—The newspaper Etoile announces that the government has bought the entire wheat supply in Antwerp after announcing to holders that the cereal would be seized if they failed to agree to government terms.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Russia and France each replied to Germany's ultimatum by handing the German ambassador to each country his passports, the White House is informed.

When an ambassador is given his passports, strained relations existing between the countries, a declaration of war usually follows within a few hours.

Detailed information as to the circumstances surrounding the handing of the passports to the German Ambassador to Russia was absolutely refused at the White House. That the die is cast and that war is now inevitable is the view of the Wilson administration. The decisive step is reported to have been taken in the departure of the German Ambassador from St. Petersburg and formal declaration of war is now believed to be a matter of only a few hours.

As a rule the departure of an Ambassador under such strained circumstances as exist at present means the rupture of diplomatic relations with war following immediately.

Count Friedrich de Pourtales is the German Ambassador at St. Petersburg. During his administration of German interests in Russia several crises have been successfully passed, largely, it is believed, through his own efforts and not those of the German Foreign Office.

"Already in State of War"

LONDON, Aug. 1.—The following grave statement was published in the Evening News today:

"We learn officially that Baron von Schoen, Germany's Ambassador in Paris, called on M. Viviani, French Prime Minister, and presented a note from his government demanding that the French government should inform Germany by noon today whether France, in the event of an outbreak of war between Germany and Russia, would remain neutral.

"There is every reason to believe that the French reply has already been presented and that it will be of a character unsatisfactory."

SYDNEY, Aug. 1.—The warlike conditions in Europe have caused the suspension of the practice cruise of the Australian fleet. Several of the vessels have returned to Sydney.

MOSCOW, Aug. 1.—The municipal council has voted a million roubles (about $500,000) for the Red Cross service of Russia and friendly powers.

THE SWORD HAS BEEN FORCED INTO OUR HANDS, SAYS KAISER

Envious peoples everywhere are compelling us to our just defence. The sword has been forced into our hands--From Kaiser Wilhelm's War Speech to German People.

ALERT TO CHECK DASH BY GERMANS

From the special war correspondent of the American and the London Daily Telegraph.

PARIS, Aug. 1.—I am informed at one of the embassies of Paris most directly concerned in the impending conflict that conversations are going on still between London and Berlin. When reported this in an authoritative source in the French quarters, I was told: "Yes, conversations are going on, but they are like whisperings round a death bed."

SITUATION GROWS DESPERATE

The situation is worse than it has been before at any time. In Berlin it is considered desperate. The proclamation of the kaiser is the almost certain preliminary to mobilization. If Germany mobilizes to-day, France will reply immediately by mobilizing also.

The very last steps have been taken and the first French battle line could be thrown forward in a few hours.

A council of ministers met last night with the President of the republic in the chair. So far no real decision whatever has been called out by France. General Joffre, commander-in-chief, called at the Elysee during the cabinet council.

When news of the proclamation of the kaiser came to hand from Berlin, Baron von Schöner said: "So far we have received no news from Berlin of this development. Should the latter be true, it will not constitute an aggravation of the international situation. Germany is taking her precautions like other great powers."

THE FIRST THREAT

The kaiser's statement does not imply calling up of the reserves, which can be done only in case of mobilization. I hope this statement of mine will reassure public opinion, which might have been alarmed by a news which it did not fully understand.

This statement has not reassured the English public, however. The Times says that the first threatening communication made at St. Petersburg Wednesday was made after the same day in London and Paris, though the last sentence was kept secret.

In London Sir Edward Grey received a note of Baron von Schöner's statement. In Paris the French Foreign Affairs Minister said:

"It is certain that conversations are going on."

PEACE PLEA MADE BY KING TO CZAR

By HERBERT TEMPLE.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—King George V. declared today there has full support to the cause of peace. He sent an urgent message to Czar Nicholas II. Russia. It was reported in simple, direct words that the monarch in all peace and the war catastrophe that threatened.

As a member of the triple alliance, England may be able to do much to prevent the war which will bring about the end of the world. The king's message was the first of its kind since the outbreak of the war.

News that Germany had sent an ultimatum to Russia, followed by a statement of the king's position, followed by the king's message, followed by the king's message, followed by the king's message.

ASQUITH AND KING CONFERENCE

Premier Asquith dashed from his home in Rushmore Palace in his automobile at 2 o'clock this morning after receiving the latest reports from the foreign office.

The king had not gone to bed and the premier was immediately received. The conference of king and premier, who is also a minister of war, was brief and Asquith then returned to his home.

Early today the official announcement was made that the king had communicated with Emperor Nicholas II.

With the trend of martial fervor receding through the continent, the shadow of war hangs heavily over Europe. News of an actual declaration of war by Germany was expected to come at any time.

The only hope for peace in King George's message to the czar, in which he said that the king's message was the first of its kind since the outbreak of the war.

At dawn messengers were dispatched to the czar's residence in St. Petersburg.

Five thousand persons assembled in front of the palace and cheered the emperor and the empress. During the demonstration Emperor William appeared in a window and addressed his subjects as follows:

A fatal hour has fallen for Germany. Envious peoples everywhere are compelling us to our just defence. The sword has been forced into our hands.

I hope that if my efforts at this last hour do not succeed in bringing our opponents to see eye to eye with us and in maintaining the peace, we shall, with God's help, use with the sword that we shall restore it to its sheath again with honor.

War would demand of us an enormous sacrifice in property and life, but we should show our enemies what it means to us.

ENGLISH AND GERMAN FEETS OFF DECKMARK

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 1.—German and English warships are active in Danish waters. Two German torpedo boats were seen today near the fortress at Middelfart, a few miles from Copenhagen. The warships fired only after being commanded to do so by the commander of the fortress, who threatened force.

A big German fleet was reported off the south of Holland.

A German squadron, cruising off Landeolund, is stopping all vessels to investigate their nationality and destination of their cargoes. German torpedo boats are near Helsingør and the Cattegat and German warships are patrolling between Sweden and Jutland.

A big Russian squadron is outside the Danish island of Bornholm in the Baltic.

Denmark has called out all persons liable for active service, particularly for the protection of the coast. Parliament will meet tonight.

Cable and telegraphic communication between Germany and Denmark has been suspended by Germany without notice to the Danish authorities.

The Danish-German frontier is barred by German troops.

All the editors of the Danish press at Helsingør, a seaport of 15,000, in Schleswig, have been arrested by the German authorities.

PROFESSOR HART AND DR. FISH DISCUSS PROBLEMS OF WAR.

By ALBERT PROPPER.

Dr. Carl F. Hart, professor of history and economics of the University of Wisconsin, who is teaching at the Harvard Summer School, commenting on the Austro-Serbian war, said:

"The condition now is the most serious since 1871. Russia cannot maintain her prestige as the leader of the Slavs if she lets Serbia be sacrificed in Austria. Austria is in a position to crush the Slav power. Austria has been hostile to Serbia since 1908, and the coming together of Austria and Bulgaria in interfering with the export of Serbian products through Austrian territory."

"But until a year ago Serbia was supposed to be a weak power, and could be bullied or ignored. The Austrians expected the Turcs to help Macedonia till they were in a position to occupy that province and get access to the Aegean Sea at Salonika. When the Allies went over the Turks and divided Macedonia among them, the condition of the Balkans was blocked."

"The war is in part intended to prevent the reopening of that road, either by taking the territory away from the Serbs, or by securing special rights to use the road. That is, it is partly a commercial war to open to the avenue of trade and to recover the market in the Balkans which has been nearly lost for Austrian goods."

BRIDE KILLED IN VERMONT AUTO WRECK

NORTH ADAMS, Aug. 1.—An automobile containing ex-Mayor A. Houghton, his daughter, Miss Mary Houghton, Dr. and Mrs. Houghton, and a young woman overprecious on Pownall (Vt.) Hill this morning.

Mrs. Houghton, who was Miss Sarah Cady of New York, was instantly killed. Mrs. Houghton was probably fatally hurt. Others were badly cut and bruised.

Mrs. Houghton sustained a fractured shoulder. Repair work on road interfered with the operation of car.

Making Small Display Advertisements Pay

Idle Hours Mean Higher Prices and Less Profit

It is easy for anyone to judge that the store with infrequent customers is a more expensive place to patronize than the one that is agreeably busy, for it is an established economic fact that advertising "turn stocks" and turning stocks lowers selling prices.

In the less patronized stores, prices must be high to overcome the evaporation—the loss entailed by idle help, unused light and vacant space.

The busy store utilizes all these elements—turns its stocks into money over and over again during the year—and can afford to sell for less.

Advertising makes it possible for the small dealer as well as the large dealer to lower his prices. Whether your store is on the ground floor or on the second floor, or in a large office building, you ought to advertise because it will positively pay you.

No matter how small the advertisement—two inches, three inches, four inches or even larger—if they are properly displayed and offer buying advantages—the public will read them and respond.

Small advertisements—wisely merchandised by a competent storekeeper—are especially alluring. They have great powers of attraction.

If the advertiser is sincere—if he advertises something for which there is a general demand—and is determined to give each customer a square deal—he will transform dozing clerks into active salesmen.

Newspaper readers know that small stores and exclusive shops are comfortable places in which to trade.

They know that they will receive prompt attention.

They know that an effort will be made to please them.

They know through experience that advertising is not an expense that must be charged up to the customer.

Advertising is an agent of economy.

It goes out into the highways and byways and reveals the whereabouts of those who want merchandise. It finds them and leads them—with their buying instinct aroused—to the store of the advertiser.

The merchandise advertised is already half sold.

It is then the duty of the merchant to take these ready-to-buy customers and supply their mercantile wants as far as it is within his ability to do so.

And he must provide these believers in advertising with the best of his establishment affords—must see that they are completely satisfied and be sure that what they have bought will undergo the crucial test of use and wear.

Every merchant, to be successful, must do this—all of this—and just as much more as he possibly can. All that the average newspaper can do is to place his advertisement before its readers.

The American, however, does more than merely present your advertisement. It endorses it to the largest, most responsive newspaper audience—the greatest purchasing power, based on circulation—in Boston.

A progressive, discriminating people are readers of the American.

Attracted by quality contributors they are susceptible to the quality appeal in advertising. And they have both the means and the inclination to buy.

When you talk through the American, you are talking to people whom America's foremost manufacturers and Boston's most successful merchants find it most profitable to address.

There is no need to scatter your advertising ammunition.

Mrs. Horatio S. McDowell, who was Esther Kellogg, now on her honeymoon in the Middle West.

Well to the fore in importance among recent marriages in that of Miss Esther Kellogg and Horatio S. McDowell, who were wedded by the Rev. Ambrose W. Vernon, rector of the Harvard Congregational Church, the ceremony took place at the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. Eva M. C. Kellogg, No. 16 Westland avenue.

The bride's sister, Eva, acted as her attendant, and Harry McDowell, brother of the groom, was best man. The bride wore a gown of white crepe, tastefully trimmed with duchesse lace, orange blossoms fastening the bridal veil of tulle.

After a wedding dinner, the couple left for a honeymoon trip. They will live in Urbana, Ill., where Mr. McDowell is instructor in the College of Engineering, University of Illinois.

Mrs. Hall McCallister gave the second in her series of musicales on the North Shore yesterday at the home of Mrs. Harry Pratt McKean at Frides Crossing.

The artist for the affair were Miss Ellen of New York, violinist, and Marion Green of Chicago. A number of John A. Carpenter's songs, written expressly for Mr. Green, were a part of the program.

Interest manifested in the announcement of the engagement of Miss Harriet Pew, daughter of General and Mrs. William Pew of Salem, to Marion Garfield of Williams-town, a graduate of Milton College with this year's class. Miss Pew is a graduate of the Milton Academy (Girls' School), and while attending here lived at Hatheway House.

Miss Pew was formally presented to society last Winter in Salem, when a number of Boston debutantes attended the affair given in her honor. Mr. Garfield is the grandson of the late President James A. Garfield, and is the second son of Harry Augustus Garfield, president of Williams College.

Mrs. Roger Wolcott, who is spending much of her time this season in Newport, was a guest yesterday at the luncheon the Russian Ambassador and Mrs. Bakmstedt gave at Rome Villa. Mr. and Mrs. Edward McLean were also numbered among the guests.

A number of dinners will be given this evening at York Harbor. Mr. McDowell is instructor in the College of Engineering, University of Illinois.

air, is of definite proportion also. But nature performs an almost incredible feat in keeping the proportions exact.

Take air from any part of the world's envelope, analyze it, and the ratios are the same. But man processes in nature take oxygen out of the air, and others restore it likewise nitrogen. But the man millions of takings and returning balance with great precision. The intricate problem is beyond imagination. With Mr. Evans, I ask how is it possible to maintain equilibrium?

In 1639 others came from various points in Massachusetts, and from the Chief Mintonnoma they purchased the site of the quidary. Aquid was the Indian name for the region, and meant "Peaceable Isle"—a most appropriate name for the place that was about to be settled by the first of the dissenting Christians, though not for all, the Catholics, on grounds of the denial of the Trinity. The dissenters included; but Rhode Island, due to the influence of the grand old Welshman, pur Catholic and Protestant, Christian and Jew, Marmaduke Mathias, settled on the same footing, with absolute liberty for all.
